1) O Holy Spirit, by whose breath
2) You are the seeker’s sure resource,
3) In you God’s energy is shown;

Life rises vibrant out of death,
Of burning love the living source,
To us your varied gifts made known,

Come to create, renew, inspire;
Protector in the midst of strife,
Teach us to speak, teach us to hear;

Come, kindle in our hearts your fire.
The giver, and The Lord of life.
Yours is the tongue, and yours the ear.
4) Flood our dull senses with your light;
5) From inner strife grant us release.

In mutual love our hearts unite.
Turn nations to the way of peace.

Your pow’r the whole creation fills;
To fuller life your people bring;
Coda: Praise to The Father, Christ His word.

Confirm our weak, uncertain wills.
That as one body we may sing;
Coda: And to The Spirit: God The Lord.
9th century Latin translated by John Webster Grant, 1919 - 2006